

I am a traveling pop-up culinary concept-based menu curator. My food reflects the bounty of the Worlds flavour with a big dose of Indian influence. The most important rule is flavour. No matter what direction I want to go with the dish or recipe, it has to leave you with a remembrance of how good it was—that is what makes you want to go back to that place where you had that. experience. Visual, scent and feel are all great experiences to have in food and are needed to. complete a dish, but it is the flavour that takes you home and brings you back to that place. Wish you all to have a feel of great flavour and memory.... Let's say "Bon Appétit"
